Hello, my name is Rob, a life-long resident of the Northeast Kingdom of Vermont. My wife, Regina, and I have lived in Lowell, Vermont for nearly 20 years on our homestead farm. I am an avid gardener and steward of our 27-acre homestead. I have been active in the real estate profession for over 25 years and have transitioned to utility contracting over the past 15 years, managing right-of-way projects in the electrical transmission and telecommunications field. VELCO has contracted my company's services on numerous projects, giving me, and my daughter, Raven, the opportunity to meet and work with many Vermont landowners. Keeping Vermont's electrical grid robust and safe is important to us. I look forward to meeting and working with landowners in Franklin County to meet the future electrical energy needs of our state.
