Ability to Provide Redacted Version/Reasons Why Redacted Version Is Unavailable

A redacted version is not available because it would not provide meaningful information.

The prefiled testimony of William J. Allard describes the content of this exhibit without revealing confidential and CEII information that includes cybersecurity, safety, security measures and access methods, other security information, or detailed planning criteria and deficiency analysis.

Justification of Non-Disclosure Period

The sensitive nature of the confidential and CEII information in the document means that it must remain confidential and that VELCO is unable to provide a date by which it could provide the Commission with authorization to release the information from the terms of the proposed Protective Order.

Reason for CEII Designation

The document contains data relating to vulnerabilities of VELCO facilities, and includes details regarding the location of the facilities, access and security measures, detailed planning criteria and deficiency analysis, and communication details all in the context of included diagrams.

Measures to Guard Secrecy/Confidentiality

The information contained in the document is ordinarily treated as confidential information and its secrecy is guarded by VELCO, its consultants and advisors, and third parties that have been granted access to the information subject to appropriate confidentiality arrangements that are required by law.
